

Mohamed Daadaoui is professor of political science, and Chair of the Political Science and History Department at Oklahoma City University, OK. His research interests include political Islam, US Foreign Policy in the Middle East and North Africa, democratization, and the prevalence of authoritarianism in MENA. He is the author of Moroccan Monarchy and the Islamist Challenge: Maintaining Makbzen Power and The Historical Dictionary of the Arab Uprisings. He also published articles in Middle East Critique, The Journal of North African Studies and Middle Eastern Studies, the Washington Post's Monkey Cage, the Huffington Post, Carnegie's SADA, Jadaliyya, Muftab, and the Middle East Institute among others. Daadaoui has provided commentary to local and international media outlets such as: C-Span, al-Jazeera English, the BBC, El Pais, and The Irish Times. He is also the author of a blog on Maghreb/North African politics called Maghreb Blog