

Hishaam Aidi [ha26@columbia.edu] is lecturer at Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and a fellow at the University's Center for Contemporary Black History, New York, NY. Dr. Aidi is author of Redeploying the State: Corporatism, Neoliberalism and Coalition Politics (2008) and co-editor, with Manning Marable, of Black Routes to Islam (Palgrave 2009). He is also a contributing editor of the journal Souls: Critical Journal of Black Politics, Culture and Society. He has written extensively about African and Afro-diasporan affairs for various magazines including Africana, The New African, ColorLines, Souls, Socialism and Democracy and MERIP. He was named Carnegie Scholar in 2008-2009.