

Mun'im Sirry [msirry@uchicago.edu] is a doctoral student at the University of Chicago Divinity School, IL. After graduating from the Islamic Boarding School Pesantren in Indonesia, he pursued undergraduate and graduate studies in Islamic law [LLM (Hons)] at the International Islamic University, Islamabad (Pakistan). He earned his second Master's degree in Islamic studies from the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA). He has been actively involved in interfaith dialogue and activities in Indonesia where he worked with the late Dr. Nurcholish Madjid, the most prominent Muslim scholar in contemporary Indonesia. In 2003, he organized a series of workshops throughout the country which resulted in the publication of a controversial book he edited: Islamic Legal Perspective on Interfaith Relations. His publications include "Secularization in the Minds of Reformist Muslims: A Case Study of Nurcholish Madjid and Fouad Zakaria," in the Journal of Indonesian Islam, Vol. 01, No. 02 (December 2007); "Transformation of Political Islam in Post-Suharto Indonesia," in Blackwell Companion to Contemporary Islamic Thought, Ibrahim Abu-Rabi, ed. (London: Blackwell publishing, 2006); "Early Muslim-Christian Dialogue: a Closer Look at Major Themes of the Theological Encounter," in Islam and Christian-Muslim Relations, Vol. 6, No. 4 (October, 2005); Membendung Militansi Agama [Resisting Religious Militancy] (Jakarta: Penerbit Airlangga, 2003); (editor) Fiqih Lintas Agama [Islamic Legal Perspective on Interfaith Relations] (Jakarta: Paramadina, 2003); Dilema Islam, Dilema Demokrasi [Islamic Dilemma, Democratic Dilemma in Indonesia] (Jakarta: Gugus Press, 2002); and Sejarah Fiqih Islam: Sebuah Pengantar [a History of Islamic Law: an Introduction] (Surabaya: Risalah Gusti, 1996). He also wrote for major national newspapers in Jakarta.
